The perfect guide to accompany the railway
rambler

Railway Walks: GWR & SR is a handbook for scenic walks along ten of the best railway paths in the South of England, ranging from the Plym Valley Railway Path and Cycle Route on the southern slopes of Dartmoor to the densely-wooded tracks of the Forest of Dean, and taking in the Downs Link across the rolling countryside of West Sussex and Surrey, and the Camel Trail in Cornwall.

- Author was chief consultant on the BBC's Railway Walks series.
- Updated edition with new information about available routes.
- Detailed descriptions of each walk, including OS grid references, helpful maps and illustrations, and comprehensive information about transport and refreshment facilities.
- Appendices include information on key organisations.
- 8 colour and 80 black and white illustrations.

Jeff Vinter is a well-respected railway historian, who has written many books, including the Railway Walks series for the History Press. He has also consulted on a number of TV programmes, including most recently selecting the walks for Julia Bradbury's 'Railway Walks' TV show, aired in October 2008 on BBC 4 and repeated on BBC 2 in spring 2009. He was Chairman of Railway Ramblers for 20 years and is currently webmaster for the association: www.railwayramblers.org.uk
